

ALLY CHEUNE NKONGE

Nkonge was born in Uganda .He had his Bachelor's degree in Makerere University where he studied literature in English, philosophy and religious studies with specific focus to Islam. He studied post graduate diploma in education to teach literature in English, English language and Islamics at secondary level. He then studied masters degree in literature at the same university after which he started teaching at university level. At the time of writing this book his PhD thesis was still under examination at Egerton university.

He has written several books among which is the novel 'The link' ISBN:978-9970-9373-1-8 which focuses on the girl child upbringing using Islamic perspective.

This particular book 'Islamic Literally Aesthetics and Research in Literature' has been written under project of Integration of Knowledge and Nkonge has integrated knowledge of literature with that of Islam where by he has analysed the basis of judging literature from the Islamic perspective. Hence this book gives guidelines to researchers and writers within the Islamic framework.